

IN DAVIS MURDER TRIAL . . .

Death Request Seems Unlikely

By CRAIG CALLAWAY
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Grand Island — The fact that a woman strongly opposed to capital punishment was seated on the jury Thursday seems to indicate that the prosecution might not ask for the death penalty in the first-degree murder trial of Thomas F. Davis in Hall County District Court here.

Mrs. Sandra Hostler, a Grand Island housewife, during questioning Wednesday by special prosecutor R. M. Van Steenberg, expressed grave doubts about the ability of her conscience to let her bring a conviction if she knew the death penalty was being sought.

At that time, Van Steenberg challenged Mrs. Hostler for cause, but Judge Donald Weaver ruled there was no constitutional grounds for the challenge and overruled it.

Then, Thursday, when counsel had its final chance at peremptory challenges, Van Steenberg did not challenge Mrs. Hostler and she became a jury member.

Asked by The Lincoln Star if this meant that he would not ask the jury to recommend a death penalty in the event it finds Davis guilty, Van Steenberg said, "No comment."

He had five peremptory challenges left when the 12 jurors and two alternates were finally seated and could have removed Mrs. Hostler from the jury without giving any reason.

Davis, 32, is accused of slaying his wife Phyllis last August 14. She was 29 and the mother of seven children.

The jury members are Kathleen Potter, housewife; Gwendolyn White, housewife; Lloyd Muller, farmer; Cecil Porter, laundry company executive; Doris Varvel, housewife; Rolland Higgins, accountant; Nicholas Wieler, businessman; Robert Woodward, accountant; Mrs. Hostler, housewife; Joan Felske, secretary; Annette Davis (no relation to the defendant), school teacher; and Kenneth Paustian, the city cemetery manager. All are from Grand Island.

The fourth day of jury selection started when Judge Donald Weaver reversed his order to reporters dealing with their news accounts of the questions and answers. He had instructed them not to do any verbatim reporting, but Thursday morning gave them the go-ahead to report counsel's questions verbatim, but to continue to refrain from quoting the potential juror's answers.

Sought Mistrial

Defense attorney John Mitchell of Omaha immediately moved for a mistrial, claiming that the substantial change in procedure was a prejudicial matter. The judge overruled his motion, as he had overruled a previous motion for mistrial by Mitchell Wednesday.

Van Steenberg, in questioning prospective jurors, told them that "at this point the state does not have an eyewitness. I'll tell you that very candidly. It's our contention that sometimes circumstantial evidence is more (convincing) than an eyewitness. . . . Criminals don't normally do things when people are watching them."

Mitchell, in his questioning of the potential jurors, at one time remarked that should the state try to prove Davis guilty of conspiracy in Mrs. Davis' death, or of aiding and abetting the killing, it must show who the killer was and then prove that Davis was connected with that killer. Van Steenberg objected, saying that Mitchell's contention was a misstatement of the law and the judge sustained the objection.

Clarified

Van Steenberg clarified the position of the prosecution a bit further for The Star during a break — saying that he felt the state did not have to necessarily identify the killer, if it was the case that Davis conspired or aided or abetted that killer.

The prosecution elicited responses from each prospective juror to the effect that he or she would have no trouble convicting a person of first degree murder on circumstantial evidence alone.

Van Steenberg was successful in getting two potential jurors excused when they said they would have trouble with their consciences bringing such a conviction.

During defense questioning, Mitchell said, "some evidence could be presented to show" that Davis had a girl friend and further said that there might be "some testimony that there was extra-marital sexual relations on the part of Mr. Davis, on the part of Mrs. Davis, maybe on the part of others."

But, as he has done throughout the questioning, Mitchell made sure that each potential juror understood that no one's morals were on trial.

Red Offensive Enters 6th Day

Saigon (AP)—The enemy opened the sixth day of its spring offensive Friday after overnight shellings across South Vietnam including a salvo against Da Nang that demolished two U.S. Navy utility craft in a chain of ammunition explosions.

A Saigon naval source said preliminary reports indicated seven of 10 persons died in the attack on a Da Nang naval dock area.

North Vietnamese, Viet Cong Make Bitter Attack On Nixon

Paris (AP)—North Vietnam and the Viet Cong teamed up in a bitter attack on President Nixon on the eve of his visit to France, and the sixth weekly session of the Paris peace talks ended Thursday without any visible sign of progress.

Tran Bui Kiem of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front accused Nixon of "camouflaging under beautiful words of peace . . . his black and vile intentions."

North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy's words, though less vivid, supported the NLF complaint that the

RIOTING BAD IN ROME

Crowds Also Cheer Nixon

. . . ONE STUDENT DIES

Rome (AP)—Communist-led demonstrators touched off the first serious disorders of President Nixon's European visit Thursday with riots that left one dead and scores injured.

The violence erupted after the U.S. chief executive, heartened by a rousing sendoff in West Berlin, had been hailed by welcoming crowds in the Italian capital.

Scores Bloodied

At least 35 policemen were injured, scores of students bloodied and 139 rioters arrested after running battles through the heart of the city.

The wail of sirens could be heard in the conference room of the Quirinal Palace where Nixon was meeting with Italian President Giuseppe Saragat.

Just two blocks away, thousands of students, shouting "Nixon go home!" and "Mao, Mao, Mao Tse-tung!" hurled stones and firecrackers and jabbed police with pointed sticks.

The students lambasted NATO, the U.S. presence in Vietnam, the Greek junta and "American imperialism."

Milan, Naples Hit

Milan and Naples also were hit by student-worker demonstrations against Nixon, and Communists claimed that anti-Nixon outbreaks occurred in Pisa, Foggia, Matera, Ravenna and Massa Lombarda.

The student who died in Rome was Domenico Congelo, 24, an education major. He fell from an upper story window of the University of Rome Teachers College, which was occupied by leftists and besieged by rightists. Fellow students were soon talking of Congelo as a martyr for their cause.

The scene was in stark contrast to one earlier in the day when a crowd of cheering Romans surrounded Nixon after his jet landed at Ciampino Airport and hoisted the President to their shoulders.

Nixon Echoes JFK

Paraphrasing President John F. Kennedy's 1963 "I am a Berliner" speech, Nixon said: "In the sense that the people of Berlin stand for freedom and peace, all the people of the world who want freedom are truly Berliners. Remember, we are always with you."

Though Nixon had expressed hope in Berlin for an East-West conciliation, West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger said in an interview after the President's departure that chances were virtually nil for an agreement with the Communists to shift the West German presidential election from the divided city.

In Paris, where Nixon was to begin a three-day visit Friday, observers saw little hope for a dramatic repair of long-strained American-French relations. They said the issues separating the two nations were too fundamental to be settled by Nixon's visit.

Committee OKs Holidays Change

Despite opposition from veterans organizations, the Legislature's Government Committee gave 5-1 endorsement Thursday to a bill under which commemorative holidays in Nebraska would fall on Mondays.

Labor Day already is observed uniformly on Monday — the first Monday in September.

Under LB337, Monday would be the observance day also for Washington's Birthday (now Feb. 22); Memorial Day (now May 30); Columbus Day (now Oct. 12), and Veterans Day (now Nov. 11).

Veterans organizations representatives and others contended that disregarding the actual commemorative dates would take away from the real meaning of the holidays.

More On Legislature

(See Pages 5, 6, 7 and 8.)

They urged retention of the specific holiday dates for sentimental and patriotic reasons.

LB337, principally sponsored by Sen. William F. Swanson of Lincoln, would put Nebraska's holiday observances in conformity with federal observances called for in a recent act which takes effect in January 1971. The Nebraska bill was amended to make its effective date coincide with the federal act.

Earl Luff of Lincoln, representing the Nebraska Association of Commerce and Industry, said his organization does not necessarily approve of the number of holidays being observed each year, but favors the Monday observances. Among other things, a Monday holiday, as opposed to a holiday during the week, should reduce absenteeism, which currently costs business and industry $10 million a year, he said.

LB337 would not disturb the timing of such holidays as Independence Day, Thanksgiving or Christmas. But Washington's Birthday would be observed the third Monday in February; Memorial Day, the last Monday in May; Columbus Day, the second Monday in October, and Veterans Day, fourth Monday in October.

BEATRICE PARK PARTIALLY INUNDATED

Sign of spring? Possibly, but there are also road signs barely above water which has Beatrice's Chautauqua Park partially inundated. Swelled by melting snow, the adjacent Big

Rain, Snow Make Highways Icy

Freezing rain and snow generally was ending across the state Thursday night, but the added precipitation and cooling temperatures combined to cause icy and hazardous driving in most areas.

Melting snow earlier in the day plus the new moisture also worsened the chances for flooding in southeastern Nebraska. At De Witt the Blue River was down 2 inches above the dam, but the water below the dam was up 8 inches due to inflow from Turkey Creek.

A wedge of ice that broke up in the Missouri River in the area, however, generally eased any immediate flood threat.

The 20-mile-long section of ice moved downstream from Rulo and the river dropped from a reading of more than 20 feet to just over 12 feet.

For a time Thursday the Big Blue River at Beatrice was at 20.20 feet, about 4 feet above flood stage. The water went down later in the day, however.

Some ice jams were reported in Beatrice and also at Fairbury.

Crests were near or slightly over flood stage at Dewese and Fairbury early in the day.

Nebraska Civil Defense Agency officials said that the agency will issue regular flood advisory bulletins while post-winter flooding is likely in the state.

In an "unofficial" preliminary report, the agency said conditions along the Loup and Platte River Basins needed to "be watched carefully."

"Severe flooding does not appear imminent" in Big and Little Blue, Elkhorn or Niobrara River areas, however, the agency report said.

Roads surfaces Thursday were reported to be especially snowpacked and hazardous in Cherry, Brown, Rock and Holt Counties, with 10 inches of new snow reported at Naper and 8 inches at Atkinson, an official of the State Roads Department said.

Neb. 12 east of Valentine was blocked Thursday evening, the official said. U.S. 136 west of Fairbury — with 3 feet of water on the road — was closed to all traffic except semitrailers.

Winds were strong in some areas of the state and caused some blowing snow. Strongest winds were at Grand Island, Mullen and Ainsworth, where winds gusted from 22 to 33 miles an hour.

The U.S. Weather Bureau reported .96 of an inch of precipitation at Ida Grove in the form of 5 inches of new snow, 2.4 inches of snow at North Omaha, 2 inches of snow at Ord, 1.6 inches of snow at Omaha and .10 of an inch of precipitation in Lincoln.

Negroes Dramatically Slow Movement Into Inner Cities

Washington — Whites have sharply accelerated their movement from the central cities in the past year while Negroes have even more dramatically slowed migration into them. At the same time, the inner-city ghettos have spread in area and slums have begun to emerge in the suburbs.

This "significant change" in the pattern of urban growth was revealed in a special study of the country's social behavior since the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders reported last March that the nation was moving toward "two societies, one black, one white — separate and unequal."

A 90-page report on the nation's response to the crisis was released Thursday by the two private groups which jointly sponsored it — Urban America, Inc., and the Urban Coalition.

Two members of the commission — Mayor John V. Lindsay and Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla. — and its staff director, David Ginsburg, a Washington lawyer, served on an advisory board for the study.

The authors of the report concluded that although some progress had been made toward eliminating discrimination and poverty, the polarization found by the commission has increased in the past year and no "serious start" has been made toward the changes in national priorities that the panel recommended.

Other findings included: —Although a number of cities have adopted some of the commission's recommendations, no major city has established an external police review board, which the commission said was needed to improve community relations.

Conflict Spreads —Disorders on college campuses have taken on an increasingly racial character and are spilling over into high schools in both large and small cities and in some rural areas throughout the country.

—Despite the rise in employment and income, welfare costs have continued to soar — from $6.9 billion in 1967 to $8.8 billion in 1968 — at least partly because the proportion of Negro families in central cities headed by females continued to rise, to 35% last year.

—The federal government has not devised any effective means of coordinating its many service programs.

Flames Destroy Hotel At Valentine; None Hurt

... Six Other Businesses, Apartment Lost

Valentine (P) — Fire consumed the 43-year-old Marian Hotel in downtown Valentine Thursday, knocking out six other businesses and destroying a residential apartment housed in the building.

No one was injured, but a heavy pall of smoke lay over the business district and a snowstorm whipping out of the Sand Hills made fighting the blaze difficult.

Firemen from Valentine, Ainsworth, Neb., and Winner, Mission and Rosebud, S.D., battled the stubborn flames throughout the forenoon and into the afternoon.

KVSH Hard Hit
Radio Station KVSH, which maintained its studios in the hotel was knocked off the air and virtually all of its equipment was lost including a library of phonograph records numbering about 10,000.

Station Manager Larry Russell transferred his staff to the transmitter site about a half-mile from the city where standby equipment was available for limited broadcast service.

The station went back on the air about 1 p.m. central time.

That was about the time firemen finally declared the blaze under control, but they continued to pour water on the smoking rubble.

The south wall of the two-story brick building was completely down, east, west and north walls were about half down.

Other establishments destroyed in the fire were the Sandhills Cattle Association office; the Marian Liquor Store; the Marian Coffee Shop, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith; a liquor store operated by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sharp; Bob's Agency, an investment and insurance firm operated by Bob Gass; and the Jack Roos Electrical shop.

Also damaged was a first floor apartment occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Aufdengarten and their son, Merlin, a high school upper-classman.

The Ideal Cleaners, located to the north of the hotel with a double wall separating the two buildings, was emptied of equipment and merchandise, but Tom Combs, owner of the establishment said he expected he could be back in business within two or three days.

Mrs. Kenneth Wheeler, who with her husband operates the hotel owned by Alfred McCollister, smelled smoke and turned in the fire alarm about 3:20 a.m.

Firemen spent nearly two hours at the scene and then, when they felt the blaze was completely extinguished took time out for breakfast.

Lorraine Ballard and Jim Riggie, members of the KVSH staff, were working in the building when they saw flames start up again and recalled firemen.

The roof of the building collapsed during the forenoon along with part of the walls.

Shortly before noon firemen pulled down a tall chimney at the back of the structure.

Woman, Son Face Charges In Tot's Death

David City (P) — Butler County Attorney John G. Tomek filed manslaughter charges Thursday against Mrs. Arnold Long and her son, Allen Long, 17, of Rising City, in connection with the death Feb. 19, of Carolyn Renee Walton, 3, who had been living at the Long home.

County Judge J. C. Hranac fixed bond at $1,000 each and scheduled a preliminary hearing for March 14.

The manslaughter charges were filed after a coroner's jury returned a verdict holding that the child "died of causes feloniously inflicted by Allen Long and Mrs. Long and or person or persons unknown." Tomek declined to elaborate on the verdict.

Steven Haney, a Columbus funeral director, said the child's body was brought to the mortuary by Mrs. Long and others. A physician was called to determine that the child was dead and subsequently Butler County Sheriff Leo F. Meister and Tomek began their investigation.

Location Change For Job Corps Center Sought

Washington (P) — Nebraska's Republican Sens. Roman Hruska and Carl Curtis and Rep. Glenn Cunningham, also a Republican, have urged the discontinuance of the Women's Job Corps Center in downtown Omaha.

The legislators sent a joint letter to Bertram Harding, acting director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, and to William Kelly, director of the Job Corps, making the requests.

Negotiations now are under way for extension of the present contract to operate the center.

The legislators wrote that they have received letters, newspaper clippings and an editorial protesting the continuing of the center in downtown Omaha.

The center is using two former hotels as dormitories and the protesting letters say that the downtown area is not a safe place at night and that undesirable people are attracted to the area.

Federal Liens Filed Against D. S. Decker

... Missing Omahan

Omaha (P) — Federal liens claiming more than $195,000 in unpaid income taxes have been placed against Omahan Donald S. Decker, and firms with which he has been associated.

Decker is missing. Deputy sheriffs quote his family as saying he cashed a check for $1,500 about two days before his disappearance.

The liens filed by the Internal Revenue Service cover assessments for the period between 1964 and 1968. The 57-year-old developer and builder has been missing since late January.

The liens allege Decker personally owes $127,011 in taxes for 1964 through 1966. There are liens for 1964, 1965 and 1968 filed against Cornhusker Homes.

Decker left his home Jan. 27 to go to the office, but never arrived. A member of the family said his pickup truck also is missing. Deputy sheriffs quoted the family as saying a $1,500 check was cashed about two days before Decker turned up missing. No clues have been reported.

This bridge over flood-swollen Graybill Creek near Carson, Iowa, gave way as a bus carrying 20 school pupils started across. Driver Lynn Frank said he had "a funny feeling" and "stepped on the gas." The bus reached the east end as the west end of the bridge fell into the creek. Four of the pupils were injured by the sudden acceleration. Gas War Ends With Prices Higher Than Before Battle

A gasoline price war that lasted for several weeks in Lincoln ended Thursday and prices were raised a cent higher than they had been before the battle began.

The war became a controversial subject this week when a city ordinance was introduced that would outlaw the display of "gas war" signs.

Prices at most major companies' stations went up to 36.9 cents a gallon for regular gasoline and 40.9 cents for premium.

Most other retailers raised prices to 34.9 for regular and 37.9 for premium.

Prices had dropped as low as 23.9 cents for regular gasoline during the war.

George Watters, director of the Nebraska Petroleum Marketers, Inc., said the end to the war came as a "complete surprise."

Watters said retailers raised their prices to offset price hikes caused by higher crude oil prices.

The wholesale price was raised .6 of a cent and the retailers will receive an increase of .4 of a cent on each

Feedlot Given Saunders Board OK

Mead — After more than two weeks of study the Saunders County Board of Supervisors went counter to a recommendation of the Saunders County Planning Board and gave their approval to locating a midwestern feedlot operated by W. C. Foxley of Omaha, one of the state's largest feedlots in this area.

The feedlot, which could reach a capacity as high as 50,000 head of cattle, had been objected to by the University of Nebraska because of its close proximity to the 10,000 acre Mead Field Laboratory.

Dr. Howard Ottoson, director of NU experiment stations, had termed the feedlot incompatible and a danger to experiments at the field laboratory.

Considerable objection to the feedlot had also been voiced by area residents and neighboring farmers.

A joint proposal for a packing plant at the site was not approved.

The Saunders County Board of Supervisors voted four to two for the feedlot with requirements in the areas of pollution, odors, housing and waste to be met by the operator.

View Extra Tax

Those favoring the feedlot are under the impression the facility will produce an extra tax for the area of more than $88,000 and that the cattle will all be fed under a roof, on wooden slats for flooring and the waste will be held in lagoons and plowed into the soil.

Those opposing the feedlot noted that an ultimate plan for disposal of wastes had not been presented.

Foxley told the Saunders County supervisors he hasn't figured out himself the disposal of manure but he believes the problem can be solved.

Glenn Hancock of Wahoo, chairman of the board of supervisors, noted that most industry coming into an area either wants a location furnished for nothing, a loan or a tax advantage.

"Midwestern Feedlot isn't asking for a thing except the privilege of coming in here and setting up business and personally I think it deserves a good look," said Hancock.

Powell Objects

objected to the feedlot claiming that the location would "close the area to other industry."

Economics appeared to be playing a big part in the decision to give the feedlot the green light from the supervisors who noted that the NU Mead Field Laboratory is tax exempt and that if the proposed dam for the Ashland area would go in "this would take out about 130,000 acres from the tax rolls."

Study Of G.I.'s Water Quality Problems Okayed By Council

Grand Island (P) — The Grand Island City Council has approved plans for an extensive study of the city's water quality problems.

City Utilities Commissioner Frank Phelps says a University of Nebraska water a Kansas City consulting engineering firm to study the university recommendations.

Phelps says methods of combating the metals in the water in the last few years have been unsatisfactory.

But he says the existing water rates in the Third City are not high enough to finance any major system expansion or water treatment plant installation program.

Nebraska News

study has indicated that "some form of iron and manganese removal and possibly water softening will be necessary in the public interest."

Phelps says the problem most likely cannot be solved without the construction of a multi-million dollar water treatment plant.

Summary of Conditions

The latest surface map shows the main low center over the southeastern corner of Kansas with a trough of low pressure northward through eastern Nebraska into central North Dakota. By noon Friday the low will be into northeastern Arkansas and the trough will weaken and move east of Nebraska and Iowa. High cells over northern Utah and southeastern Idaho are expected to increase in size and be centered in Colorado by Friday noon.

By Friday all precipitation of consequence is expected to be ended in Nebraska. Cloudy skies are expected in eastern Nebraska and western Iowa Friday with skies elsewhere partly cloudy to fair. Skies at night will be partly cloudy to fair and on Saturday partly cloudy again. Friday temperatures will be warmer in most of western and central Nebraska due to less cloudiness, but elsewhere they will be locally cool. Temperatures Friday night will be cooler in eastern Nebraska and will be cooler in eastern Nebraska and western Iowa. A warming trend will begin slowly on Saturday.

Budget Committee Reviews Request Of $13.7 Million For Beatrice Home

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Budget Committee Thursday reviewed the Beatrice State Home's requested $13.7 million budget, which officials said would bring the institution's staffing pattern halfway toward nationally recommended standards.

Supt. Elmer Wyant said the Beatrice institution "is still overcrowded and understaffed."

Over the next several bienniums, he said, the Department of Institutions hopes to reduce the facility's 2,009 mentally-retarded resident to between 750 and 800.

How fast this is accomplished depends upon development of community-based programs for the mentally retarded, he said.

Increase Staff

The committee was told the proposed budget would increase the institution's staff from 816 to 1,089 over the next two years.

The institution's proposed "continuation" budget is $10.8 million compared with expenditures of $9.1 million and $8.5 million for the two previous bienniums.

For staffing and operation improvement the institution requested an additional $2.8 million, but Gov. Norbert Tiemann recommended $1.4 million.

Officials said some of the additional personnel requested would fill jobs formerly done by patients. They said some 80 patients, formerly helping in the institution, have been returned to self-supporting jobs in their own communities.

Sound Condition

Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice told the committee: "I'm sure the Legislature will support whatever is necessary to put the Beatrice State Home into a sound condition."

He listed a "practical" recreation building, air conditioning for wards, a modern kitchen, adequate laundry facilities and "an adequate pay scale that doesn't discriminate between employe groups."

"Before decentralizing the state's mental retardation program," Carstens said, "the conditions that have been criticized at the institution should be improved."

However, Verlin Boldry, executive secretary of the Nebraska Association for Mental Retardation, disagreed with Carstens.

City Tax Levy Change Advances

The Legislature's Governmental and Military Affairs committee sent 11 bills to the floor of the Legislature Thursday, including one to require cities and towns to levy enough taxes to provide to residents services required by law.

The effect of the bill, LB496, would be to remove mill levy ceilings now imposed on towns which some have said are not allowing them to raise the tax funds they need.

The bill says that any taxes raised to finance activities required by law "shall be in addition to all other taxes authorized by state law or by home rule charter."

It was introduced by State Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway.

Speaking for the bill was Lincoln City Attorney Ralph Nelson, who was representing the Nebraska League of Municipalities. Nelson said the bill "allows cities to levy all taxes they must to meet needs."

He said the amount of the taxes would be limited "by needs of the city."

The committee also sent to the floor a committee bill to regulate the shipment of anhydrous ammonia by trucks in Nebraska. The bill would require the licensing of all trucks which carry anhydrous ammonia in the state.

Each tank would be required to withstand at least 265 pounds of pressure per square inch.

A railroad car carrying anhydrous ammonia ruptured in Crete last week in an accident which claimed eight lives.

Also approved was a bill to require that veterans be given preference in hiring by the state. In jobs covered by merit regulations veterans would be given five extra points on their test scores and disabled veterans would be given 10 extra points.

The bill was sent out as a committee bill.

Another bill approved was one to change the name of township justices of the peace to township chairmen of the board. The bill's sponsor, State Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, said it was part of a court reform package which has been introduced. He said only six of the 478 township justices of the peace in Nebraska actually hold court.

The committee also sent out a bill to make it illegal to interfere with police radio broadcasts or to use them for "personal gain."

Another bill would allow the Douglas County Board of Equalization to appoint referees in tax reappraisal cases. James Moylan of Omaha told the committee more than 21,000 appeals were filed after the county's last reappraisal in 1966.

Also approved was a bill to allow the Department of Institutions to sell a piece of land operated by the Boys Training School west of Kearney which is unsuitable for agriculture.

Another sent to the floor after hearing was Nebraska City Sen. Rick Budd's LB288, which states that in cities with the city commission form of government, commissioners shall be elected for specific positions.

Nebraska City Mayor Robert McKissick noted that his city is the only first class city in Nebraska with the commission form of government.

Measure To Change Name Of Normal Board Passed

A bill changing the name of what has been known commonly as the State Normal Board was one of three measures passed on final reading in the Legislature Thursday.

Specifically, LB275 changes the name of the "Board of Education of State Normal Schools" to "Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges."

A constitutional amendment approved by voters last November erased the old name and authorized the Legislature to substitute something more appropriate, inasmuch as the schools at Kearney, Peru, Chadron and Wayne are no longer called "normal schools" but are designated "State Colleges."

LB275 was sponsored by Sens. Leslie Robinson of Kearney, Elmer Wallwey of Emerson, Leslie Stull of Alliance and Irving Wiltse of Falls City, and was passed on a 46-0 vote.

Also passed Thursday was a "snow relief" measure sponsored by the Revenue Committee as LB1233. It

Solons Won't Curb Session For Seminar

The Legislature voted 31-12 Thursday to put in a full work forenoon Friday rather than take time out to attend a government modernization seminar.

The decision reversed a judgment made earlier.

Sen. Don Elrod of Grand Island had obtained the earlier consent to a Friday session limited to the hour between 9 a.m. and 10 a.m., so lawmakers could attend the seminar at a downtown hotel.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff raised objections Thursday, noting that lawmakers have been criticized for absenteeism on Fridays.

Sen. William Wylie of Elgin made the motion to make Friday a regular work day.

Elrod said the seminar would deal with such matters as taxpayer savings from city-county consolidations. He contended the seminar would be of great ultimate benefit to senators and the state. Experts have been booked to participate and "I don't think at the last minute we should change our mind," he said.

Try To Upset Marijuana Bill Veto Fails

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer

Nebraska's Legislature fell five votes short Thursday of overriding Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann's veto of Sen. Terry Carpenter's marijuana penalty bill for college students.

Thirty votes were needed to enact the measure notwithstanding the governor's approval, but the vote after 65 minutes of debate was 25-21.

The measure, LB3, would have required a 30-day suspension of any college student, whether at a public or private institution, who has been convicted of marijuana possession. Furthermore, an administrator failing to carry out this edict would be fired from his job.

Tiemann vetoed the measure because of doubts as to its constitutionality, the absence of a showing that university administrators are failing to exercise adequate disciplinary procedures, and objection to the fact the bill deals only with college students and not high school students, and deals only with marijuana and no other harmful drugs.

Chiefly Psychological
Sen. Carpenter told colleagues the bill's purpose is chiefly psychological, aimed "at students who want to experiment (with marijuana). They'll count 10 before they do it."

In response to a question from Omaha Sen. Edward R. Danner, Carpenter said there would be no way to amend the bill at issue to deal also with high school students, but new legislation could be introduced.

Many of the floor speeches in support of the governor's position took the line followed in Tiemann's veto letter with respect to unconstitutionality and other objections.

Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha said the bill is class legislation prohibited by the constitution, "singling out one class of our citizenry for special censure."

Veto Lauded
Proud said Tiemann "had the nerve and guts to veto this bill. I'm sure it wasn't easy because some people would say he favored marijuana."

Sen. Wayne L. Schreurs of Seward, a former minister, said he opposes marijuana use but "I don't think LB3 is the answer."

Schreurs and others urged speedy attention to an alternative bill, LB2, also sponsored by Sen. Carpenter. LB2 would reduce first offense marijuana possession from a felony to a misdemeanor, and thereby encourage some prosecutors and judges to prosecute and convict who might have been reluctant to hang such a severe penalty on collegians.

Sen. Clifton Batchelder of Omaha, supporting revival of LB3, noted that a lot of college pranks are not too serious and authorities have traditionally been tolerant of students. But some college goings-on these days, especially in relation to drugs, are "no longer pranks," and yet collegians "still enjoy some of the sanctuary they have always had."

'Sign of Softness'
He said tolerance of marijuana use is "an unconscious manifestation of softness," typical of "the gutless age." LB3 would "strengthen the hand of the administrators," he said.

Sen. Henry F. Pedersen said that to support the governor's veto will be to tell youngsters "the Legislature says it's all right to smoke pot."

How senators voted Thursday morning on the motion to override Gov. Norbert Tiemann's veto on LB3:

For overriding (25) — Batchelder, Bloom, Burbach, Carpenter, Carstens, Clark, Duer, Elrod, Hasebroock, Kennedy, Keyes, Klaver, Kokes, Mahoney, Marvel, Moylan, Nore, Pedersen, Reynolds, Robinson, Schmit, Skarda, Swanson, Syas, Wylie.

Against (21) — Adamson, Budd, Craft, Danner, Harsh, Holmquist, Johnson, Knight, Luedtke, Moulton, Orme, Proud, Schreurs, Simpson, Stull, Waldron, Warner, Wendt, Whitney, Wiltse, Ziebarth.

Not voting (3) — Kremer, Waldo, Wallwey.

Terry Says Muffler Won't Silence Him

Omaha Sen. Richard Proud Thursday morning presented Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff with a cast-off tractor muffler, but Carpenter warned the other senators that he had been underestimated.

"It'll take more than a muffler to stop my dissertations on certain questions," he noted.

Proud said the muffler was left in Legislative Council chambers by a disgruntled Nebraska farmer who said he was refused a promised refund at the store where he purchased the muffler.

Proud said the man felt there ought to be a law covering such matters.

"So the problem was, what to do with the muffler," Proud told the Legislature. "I cogitated on this for some time." Other senators weren't much help, although Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly did agree that it was "quite a problem," he said.

Finally, Proud said, it was decided to present the muffler to two senators — the one who talks the loudest and the one who talks the most.

Voting heavily favored Sen. George Syas of Omaha as the loudest talker and Carpenter as the longest talker. But, realizing that dividing the muffler in half would destroy its utility, a run-off ballot was taken to select "a grand champion." Proud said.

"This vote was somewhat closer," Proud admitted, "but Sen. Carpenter won."

He said efforts would be made to secure another muffler for Syas.

Road Construction Site Use Bill Killed

The Legislature's Public Works Committee Thursday killed a bill which an opponent said would open the door to labor union representatives coming onto highway construction sites to organize contractors' employees.

But the Abel Construction Co. and the Nebraska Association of Highway have altered prevailing law to allow businessmen to travel on blocked construction sites to carry on their daily work, Richard Collins of Omaha told the committee.

The measure, LB532, would Heavy Contractors Association said the present law is broad enough to allow travelers with bona fide business to have access to roads under construction.

"This is obviously an attempt to organize employees," testified James Hewitt, a Lincoln attorney representing Abel Construction, testified.

Legislature rejected.

The Legislature has assigned to the Public Works Committee the job of coming up with alternative standards.

Miscellaneous Unit

A bill designed to control the use and circulation of master and skeleton keys was held for further consideration by the Legislature's Miscellaneous Subjects Committee after a public hearing Thursday.

The measure, LB497, was sponsored by Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings. Representatives of the Nebraska Locksmith Association appeared in support of the measure.

Outlawed under the bill would be "wiggle" or manipulation keys and try-out keys. The bill also would make it a misdemeanor to duplicate a "master" key. All master keys would be stamped with the words, "do not duplicate."

The committee held the measure in order to mesh its sections with recent federal legislation in the same area.

Many Invalids

Lima, Peru (AP) — About 1.5 million of this country's 12 million inhabitants are invalids, reports the Peruvian Institute for Rehabilitation.

GAME UNIT HOME SITE TALKS SET

Six Nebraska communities trying to lure the Nebraska Game Commission's Lincoln operations will make their pitches Friday to the commission.

Altogether, 15 different towns have asked for consideration in providing the commission with a new home. It is now in six different locations throughout Lincoln, with a new home.

Making their bids Friday will be Alliance, Beatrice, Grand Island, Lincoln, Neligh and Ord, game Commission Director M. O. Steen reported.

Private citizen representatives of the six have put together "definite" proposals for the commission's consideration, Steen said.

Steen said he is "fed up" with the current space problem. "We've been fighting this thing for 12 years now," he said. "And we definitely have to arrive at some solution."

A Supreme Court decision derailed the Legislature's authorization for the commission to issue $2.5 million in revenue bonds to construct a commission headquarters on the University of Nebraska's East Lincoln Campus.

In past years, the lawmakers have been reluctant to appropriate the necessary funds for a headquarters.

The proposals from the various towns range from merely asking for consideration to building a new $5 million headquarters and even moving the agency's families to the proposed location.

Crime Unit Backs Training Center

The Governor's Crime Commission Thursday endorsed bills establishing a Nebraska law enforcement training center and making the commission a statutory agency.

The proposed measures were sent to Gov. Norbert Tiemann for his approval, rejection or amendment.

Under the training center bill, an appointed Nebraska Police Standards Advisory Council, which would recommend training criteria and curriculum at the training center, would be established.

Basically, the proposal would require all law enforcement officers, excluding those serving under permanent appointment or holding office on Jan. 1, 1972, would be required to meet minimum training requirements as a condition to promotion or hiring.

On and after that date, a candidate running for county sheriff could get elected or an applicant could begin law enforcement employment but they would be required to complete the training within a year's time.

The tuition cost would be born by the employer.

Walt Weaver, the commission's executive director, said no plans have been laid for establishing a training institution. The commission Thursday authorized a training center feasibility study to determine the best approach.

Under the bill which would make the commission a statutory agency, the name of the present commission would be changed to "The Nebraska Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice."

Tiemann created the commission in 1967 by executive order after the Legislature killed a bill establishing a statutory law enforcement and crime commission agency.

Ag Committee

The Legislature's Agriculture and Recreation Committee Thursday killed, 7-0, a bill which would have required posting of property on which poisoned bait is used for predator control.

Wilcox Sen. Wayne Ziebarth's bill, LB592, was opposed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, poultry raisers and livestock producers.

Although the State Game Commission supported the measure, opponents said that law already provides for such posting where it is necessary and said that the bill would unnecessarily complicate matters.

School Board, LEA Settle Some Procedural Matters

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Negotiators for the Lincoln Board of Education and the Lincoln Education Association Thursday agreed on some procedural matters for the contract negotiating sessions but barely got started on discussion about a salary schedule.

No agreements were reached on any of the eight items requested by the LEA, including four salary schedules, that the school board had indicated it would be willing to negotiate.

The board had reported agreement with seven of the LEA's 25 requests at a previous meeting.

To Close Meeting

Further negotiation sessions were set on Thursday evenings, but both sides decided that the next meeting will be closed to the public. News media will be allowed to be present at all closed meetings, but will be able to report only an approved summary and the conclusions of each session until negotiations are finished.

Negotiators for the school board are Associate Supt. Dr. Robert Den Hartog, Asst. Supt. Dr. Carroll Sawin and board attorney Willis Hecht. Resource persons include Southeast High School principal Dr. Wesley Lauterbach and Norwood Park principal Dean W. Kuhns.

The primary negotiating team for the LEA includes LEA president J. Richard Nagele, executive secretary Ely Feistner, Northeast High School teachers Jack Mueller and Robert Wohlers, and Robin Mickle teacher Robert L. Johnson. Other staff members will be a part of the team for specific topics.

Not A Threat

Salary talks got underway with assurance from Nagele that the LEA council's recent recommendation to teachers to withhold commitment cards regarding next year's contracts was not intended as a threat to the board.

Calling the action an "out-moded" practice, the LEA president said "there will be no withholding of cards past the legal date." The forms indicating that school staff members intend to return to the district next year are due April 15.

Proposing that a basic salary schedule format be settled first, the LEA team rejected the school board's di-ferentiated staff salary plan and outlined its reasons for requesting an index salary schedule with intermediate steps.

Not Discussed

The number of steps on a salary schedule and dollar amounts, including the LEA's $7,000 base request were not discussed.

Mueller declared that the Lincoln district's salary schedule, with added pay only for M.A., six-year certificate and Ph.D. degrees, provides "no incentive" for a classroom teacher to further his education beyond the M.A.

"Any hours at any level contribute significantly to the capabilities of a teacher," he declared. The LEA contended that teachers should be compensated at increasingly higher rates for every nine hours of graduate work taken.

Need To Continue

Wohlers pointed out that new teaching techniques and new curricula necessitate continued education for quality teachers.

Other LEA negotiators noted that the state aid to schools formula provides extra funds for each teacher with a graduate degree and North Central accreditation recommends that teachers move to an M.A. degree within 10 years.

The 192 Lincoln teachers at the top of the B.A. salary schedule should be encouraged to work for higher degrees, according to Mueller. "It would be desirable to have all people at the M.A. level," he declared.

NO LOAFER

Neal W. O'Connor, at 43 president of N. W. Ayer and Son, a huge Philadelphia advertising agency, is thinking of retiring but doesn't expect to loaf. "I plan to move on in about five years to make room for the young men coming up," O'Connor says, but he'll be planning a second career. He favors second — and even third — careers.

Seminar Slated On Government

About 150 persons are expected to attend a seminar in Lincoln Friday on "Modernizing State and Local Government."

The seminar is aimed at bringing together Nebraska's legislators and officials from businesses and local governments from across the state.

The cities of Jacksonville, Fla. and Kalamazoo, Mich. will be used as models for discussion purposes. Representatives from each city will be on hand to outline how citizens councils work in each city toward more effective local government.

The conference, sponsored by Kearney State College, the Chamber of Commerce and the Nebraska Association of Commerce and Industry, will be held at the Cornhusker Hotel.

Few People Said Willing To Donate For Heart Grafts

New York (AP) — Dr. Denton A. Cooley said Thursday the stream of heart transplant donors has dried up, partly because of critics among the lay public and in a "faint-hearted" medical profession.

Cooley, the country's leading heart transplant surgeon, said he hasn't performed a heart transplant since last November because of a lack of donors.

He said 24 persons have died awaiting a transplant in his Houston, Tex., hospital, and there are eight persons waiting now.

Educators Told Social Studies Should Stress 'Inquiry, Process'

"How a student learns is as important as what he learns in social studies," Nebraska elementary school principals were told in Lincoln Thursday.

The whole emphasis in social studies should be on "inquiry and process, not on what is being taught," Dr. Max Poole of the University of Nebraska declared.

"Because a child is constantly called on to solve problems in his daily life . . . teachers should use a problem-solving approach," in the social studies curriculum, he said.

'Fossilized'

Poole, describing the tentative social studies curriculum developed by teachers in a workshop sponsored by NU and the State Department of Education, told some 175 principals that a "textbook approach to social studies is a fossilized approach."

"And people using a textbook approach are fossilized," he added.

A social studies curriculum, according to Poole, should develop responsible citizens.

Learning would be measured by viewing behavioral outcomes. For example, a test would be employed to determine if the study developed open-minded people.

Study People

Poole also pointed out that previous social studies curricula have not studied people in depth or conjectured about the future. The newly developed curriculum includes units to do so, he said.

Also addressing the Nebraska educators was Laurel M. Pennock, assistant executive secretary for the National Department of Elementary Principals within the National Education Association.

Pennock said that even though the elementary principals' group is becoming quite strong, he does not believe that it will ever completely separate from NEA. Because of the loyalty between elementary principals and classroom teachers, "separation would cause the education of boys and girls to suffer."

Other trends Pennock reported in elementary education across the country were the introduction of sex education or "family living" into elementary schools and "a good hard look at grading systems."

Vets' Payments Top $31.7 Million

The Veterans Administration paid more than $31.7 million in compensation and pension benefits to Nebraska veterans and dependents of deceased war veterans during 1968.

C. W. Nixon, manager of the VA regional office in Lincoln, said that at the end of the year, 23,217 Nebraska veterans were receiving compensation payments for service-connected disabilities or non service-connected pension benefits based on need.

He said that widows, children and dependent parents of 8,570 deceased state war veterans were on VA pension and compensation rolls at the end of the year.

Davidson May Not Support Gas War Sign Ban Measure

Lincoln City Councilman Bill Davidson said Thursday his introducing the "gas price sign" ordinance does not mean he supports the measure.

"Under our representative form of government, it is my understanding that every citizen or group of citizens is entitled to be heard before our City Council and to have introduced in their behalf ordinances that they hope will be given serious consideration," Davidson said in a prepared statement.

The introduction of the ordinance Monday which would prohibit the display of gas prices except on gas pumps has sparked considerable opposition.

Davidson, who indicated Thursday he doubts he will vote for the ordinance, said his telephone has been constantly ringing with calls from people opposing the ordinance.

He said the ordinance had not been prepared by him, but that he was only acting on a request by certain service station operators who wanted the ordinance introduced.

"I certainly do not apologize for having introduced the ordinance requested by certain service station operators," he said.

"I would hope that we never preclude any segment of our community the right to petition assistance or hearing from the City Council," Davidson said.

Former Matinee Idol, John Boles, 73, Dies In Texas

San Angelo, Tex. (AP) — John Boles, 73, onetime Hollywood singing star, died Thursday in Shannon Hospital.

He had been a patient about two weeks.

Boles, a Greenville, Tex., native, belonged to the matinee idol era of films. He had lived in San Angelo 13 years.

Services will be held here Friday.

After World War I service, Boles turned to music and appeared on Broadway. His "discovery" by actress Gloria Swanson launched a long screen career.

He played the lead in "The Desert Song."

Tedd Huston Is Named Law Day Leader

Tedd C. Huston, a Broken Bow attorney, will head the 1969 observance of Law Day USA in Nebraska. Charles E. Oldfather, Lincoln attorney, will serve as vice chairman. Announcement of these appointments was made by Charles F. Adams of Aurora, president of the Nebraska State Bar Association.

The twelfth annual observance of Law Day will occur on Thursday, May 1.

The theme for the event will be "Justice and Equality Depend Upon Law — and YOU!"

In making the announcement, Adams said, "The theme for Law Day USA this year is relevant to the issues of the present. It will lend itself to the development of programs that focus on the operation of law in contemporary society. It suggests that the achievement of social justice and equal opportunity to indeed depend upon law, and also upon the attitude of each citizen toward his fellow citizens."

Huston served as vice chairman of the state observance in 1968 and has headed the activity in his own community for a number of years.

Law Day observances throughout the state. In accepting the appointment as state chairman, Huston said, "Although this is a project of the Bar Association, we will encourage our local chairmen to seek all possible means to involve non-lawyers in meaningful events. Clearly the impact of Law Day as a special day of celebration of liberty under law depends upon the extent to which the whole community participates in its observance."

Suburban Happenings

Just a thought commemorating the rather soggy exit of February, 1969: March is coming, it can't get any worse! But just in case it does . . . well, we'll leave that up to you. Right at the moment we're too busy keeping up with suburban residents and their social activities to devote any time to writing about how to survive a Nebraska SPRING. Perhaps the power of suggestion will win out with regard to that last noun.

A group of Park Manor ladies didn't let the damp underfoot and overhead deter them from holding a get-together earlier this week. On Tuesday the members of the sixsome were co-hostesses at a luncheon held at a local restaurant honoring the birthdays of Mrs. Charles Mulvaney and Mrs. Bill Carlson.

Included among those who traveled away from Lincoln last weekend (in the fog, we might add!) were Mr. and Mrs. Walter VanDeventer. Mr. and Mrs. VanDeventer left Lincoln Friday evening for Grand Island where they had a three-day visit with Mrs. VanDeventer's brother and sister-in-law — former Lincoln residents Mr. and Mrs. Basil Rue.

Assuming the hostess role in Park Manor last evening was Mrs. Ralph Adams who entertained a group of ladies at a pinocle party. We understand that this was the second meeting of the newly-organized group, and following an evening of cards the eightsome enjoyed visiting over coffee and dessert.

The Kimberly Heights neighborhood

Council

The March meeting of the Lincoln Council of Parents and Teachers will be held at 1:15 o'clock, Thursday, at the Public School Administration Bldg.

The program will feature the PTA Citizens' Survey on Crime Control.

A meeting of the council board will be held at noon preceding the general meeting.

has had its share of comings and goings recently too; and the resident who has probably been doing the most of just that is Mrs. Pearl Frey. Mrs. Frey arrived back in Lincoln on Monday following a week-long visit in Red Cloud with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Callahan. Her stay here at home turned out to be a rather short one, however — On Wednesday she returned to Red Cloud for another short stay with her parents.

We detected just a slight note of envy in the voice of Mrs. Chester A. Dill of Lincoln Heights when she told us that her son, Rick, is about to take up residence in Mobile, Ala., where, according to Mrs. Dill, the temperatures have climbed into the upper sixties of late. HM3 Rick Dill who has been serving with the Coast Guard in New London, Conn., will be leaving today for Mobile and his new assignment. Well, as we said, Mrs. Dill, it's bound to get better — and it does get awfully warm in Alabama in the summertime!

Engagement

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Mel Kammerlohr of the engagement of their daughter, Kathryn Lee, to MMFN Terry R. Kohl, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Kohl.

No wedding date has been named.

Miss Kammerlohr is a former student at Peru State College and now is attending the Lincoln School of Commerce.

Mr. Kohl is stationed off the coast of Vietnam.

MISS MARY JO GODOWN

Of special interest to Greek letter circles on the University of Nebraska campus will be the announcement made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Godown, of Bellevue, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Jo, to Don Bailey, son of Dr. and Mrs. George W. Bailey of Cheyenne, Wyo., formerly of Bellevue where Dr. Bailey was superintendent of schools.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, April 5, and the ceremony will be solemnized at St. Thomas Aquinas Church in Lincoln.

Miss Godown is a junior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, and where she is majoring in elementary education.

Mr. Bailey is majoring in botany at the University of Nebraska where he is a senior and a member of Gamma Sigma Delta honorary.

League Supports Open Housing

The state board of the Nebraska League of Women Voters has announced that the organization supports the open housing bill, LB718, and plans to urge the legislature "to provide funding to implement all provisions of the bill and to include periodic evaluation of procedures."

The board's decision was based on the league's statewide study of equal opportunity for access to housing and a agreement among members that "all levels of government should be responsible for achieving open housing."

In the results of its study, the league's endorsement stresses that mediation and reconciliation should precede enforcement procedures in achieving non-discrimination in housing, but that there should be "quick and effective resolution of a complaint."

The organization also supports legal redress and protection for both complainant and the person or institution against whom a complaint is made.

Introduced earlier this year by Sen. Don Elrod of Grand Island, the bill provides for state responsibility through an expanded Equal Opportunity Commission, and also would grant both sides powers of subpoena and penalties for false complaints or statements.

Civic Band

All former high school or college band musicians are invited to join the Lincoln Recreation Concert Band, which meets Monday evening at the Nebraska Wesleyan University Fine Arts Bldg.

Especially needed are trombones, trumpets, percussionists, oboes, bassoons and flutes, although anyone interested in playing with the group will be welcome.

Answers To Questions

Josephine Lowman

Q. I know you have given many hints and tricks about helping women reduce. Do you have any more? I have lost 15 of the 30 pounds I should lose and my willpower is weakening. I am a teen-ager and it is so hard not to snack when my friends do — most of the time.

A. It happens that I have just had a letter from another of my teen-ager readers. I think it will help you. I quote, "I am 16 years old. Six months ago I weighed 135 pounds and I am only 5 feet, 3 inches tall. I gave up the snack foods. I am now 20 pounds lighter, and have lost inches. I exercised regularly 15 minutes a day."

"I will not gain that weight back because every time I am tempted I keep on remembering how fat I was and how nice I feel and look now. Also I have some new outfits which look great on me and would not fit me if I gained any weight."

Then this young reader told me about a technique she practiced to build up her willpower. It is certainly novel and would not work for everyone, but here it is. Again I quote, "Another hint I found helpful is that I sat at the table and watched the rest of the family eat rich fattening foods and this built up my willpower. Then when I went out with my friends I could stand to see them eating fattening foods."

Maybe this reader's family is overweight. If so, that would help! I suppose this practice could condition one to withstand pressure when the temptation is greatest.

Q. Is baldness inherited?

A. Some types definitely seem to run in families.

Q. Is it true that if you drink four cups of liquid a day it will keep you from losing weight?

A. No. In fact you need more liquid than that for good health. About losing weight, of course it depends on what liquid you drink.

For instance, four cups of chocolate malted milk shake would surely put a dent in your allowable calorie intake. If you are thinking of water, it has no calories. In some special instances fluid intake may be restricted by a physician.

Abby: tell husband

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am miserable and need your help. Three months ago I divorced my husband and now I find that I still love him. Please, God, I hope it isn't too late. Our divorce solved nothing. It just doomed me to loneliness to say nothing of what it has done to our children's morale. Abby, I am willing to crawl and beg. Anything to have us remarried, but I don't know what approach to use with him. Please, please help me.

FOOLISH IN NEBRASKA

DEAR FOOLISH: In your case, the best approach is the direct one. Tell your former husband what you have told me. Or better yet clip this and send it to him with an olive branch. You have nothing to lose but your loneliness.

DEAR ABBY: My problem concerns my boss. He's a wonderful man, and a good employer, but there's one thing he does that bugs me. He's always asking me what my boy friend and I do, where we go, how we spend our time together, etc. He's even asked me "how well" we know each other and if he's proposed to me!

I feel that these are very personal questions and I would rather not discuss them in the office. I don't want to "make waves," because this is a small office and I work closely with my boss, but I really feel that my private life is none of my boss' business. So how do I tell him (in a subtle way) to quit giving me the third degree? I don't want to spoil a good employee-employer relationship.

NO NAME, PLS.

DEAR NO NAME: Don't attempt to be subtle. It never works with one who asks questions that are none of his business. Simply tell him you would rather not discuss your personal affairs. Then quickly change the subject. He'll catch on. If he "forgets" — repeat the same treatment. Eventually he'll get the message.

BRIDGE: the bidding quiz

B. Jay Becker

BIDDING QUIZ

You have the following hand, both sides vulnerable:

♠ K9 ♥ AQJ4 ♦ AQJ105 ♣ 93

You deal and bid One Diamond; partner responds One Spade. You then bid Two Hearts, but what would you do next after partner responds: (1) Three Notrump; (2) Three Diamonds; (3) Four Diamonds; (4) Three Spades; (5) Four Hearts?

1. Pass. You have no additional values beyond those represented by your first two bids, and it is therefore clearly right to pass. The rebid of two hearts is what is called reverse bidding, and shows a hand containing at least 17 points with the first suit named longer than the second. For the hand to produce a slam your partner would have to make a stronger bid than three notrump at this stage.

2. Pass. Having bid your touching suits in reverse order and described a better than minimum opening bid, you can do no more than you have already done. Partner cannot have much more than the 6 points represented by his spade response, and his mere preference for diamonds over hearts should not be interpreted as showing additional values. Once he denies interest in game, you should be willing to settle for a part score with 100 honors.

3. Five diamonds. Partner's jump to four diamonds is based in part on your reverse bid and does not necessarily indicate a desire to go beyond game. Since you have no values beyond those previously shown, you can do no more than contract for five diamonds.

If one of your clubs were a diamond or a spade, you would have the values for a slam try. Second-round club control makes a substantial difference in the over-all value of the hand.

4. Four spades. The jump rebid guarantees game values, but no more. Since partner is sure to have at least six-card spade length, you should have no qualms about raising him on a doubleton honor. If there is a slam in the hand, partner will surely bid again over four spades.

5. Pass. While the jump raise to four hearts identifies at least some interest in a slam, it does not change the value of your hand, which is still the minimum allowed for a reverse bid. Assuming that partner has bid correctly, prospects of making twelve tricks are bound to be poor. To bid over four hearts would be equivalent to bidding the same values over and over again.

Rain around the scatter until we are like sponges. The Brownie Leader was asked to make a speech at a nearby college and has been all atwitter.

"Should I say good evening, ladies and gentlemen? Or just good evening?" she cried.

I said: "Why don't you just say, 'Hi folks!' And wind up, 'That's all, folks.' Like the rabbit in the movie cartoon?"

It's a serious subject. I wish I hadn't been frivolous.

There was a lot of before-speech jitters. "Shall I wear my new blue dress? Or should it be less dressy?"

She wrote the speech on a typewriter. Then she read it into a tape recorder. She rewrote it.

Then she said: "Will you write it for me? I simply can't get the words in the proper place."

I said coldly: "How much is it worth a word?"

She said: "You surely couldn't charge me."

I said: "I surely could."

It turned out better than we expected. It was raining by the bucket. We arrived in the lecture hall that night, dripping but determined.

The speech was made. We gathered outside for the congratulations.

We drove out on the highway for the restaurant dinner — Brownie Leaders must be rewarded and cherished for effort.

We drove through that blinding rainstorm. And on a highway hill — traffic spraying wildly past — we ran out of gas.

"I was so busy getting my speech ready, I forgot to fill it," she said. "Why didn't you think of it?"

(Said Thomas Paine: "These are the times that try men's souls.")

You can control your blood pressure by thinking about it says the Harvard Medical School. (But did they ever run out of gas on a rainy night?)

Anyway, they took 20 students with normal blood pressure and put a judas cuff on each. The kind your doctor wraps on your arm and pumps up and then says, "Hmmm."

Half of the students were trained to raise their blood pressure. Half were trained to lower it. They were shown whether they were winning by blips of light. One blip, one point for you.

When they had 20 blips, they were given a reward. The student was shown a projected slide of a nude in Playboy magazine.

Thus rewarded, the students went up and down like crazy. Just thinking about it.

I said: "It's your car. You're supposed to watch the gas." She said: "I can't make speeches and watch everything."

I said: "Get out in the rain and make a speech to the passing traffic."

She said: "I just had my hair done. It would ruin it."

I got out and tried to flag down a car. They didn't even slow down. But they did manage to splash most of the highway water on me.

She rolled down the window and called out: "Can you back up hill?" I said: "That was a Model-T." She said: "Would you like to use the umbrella?"

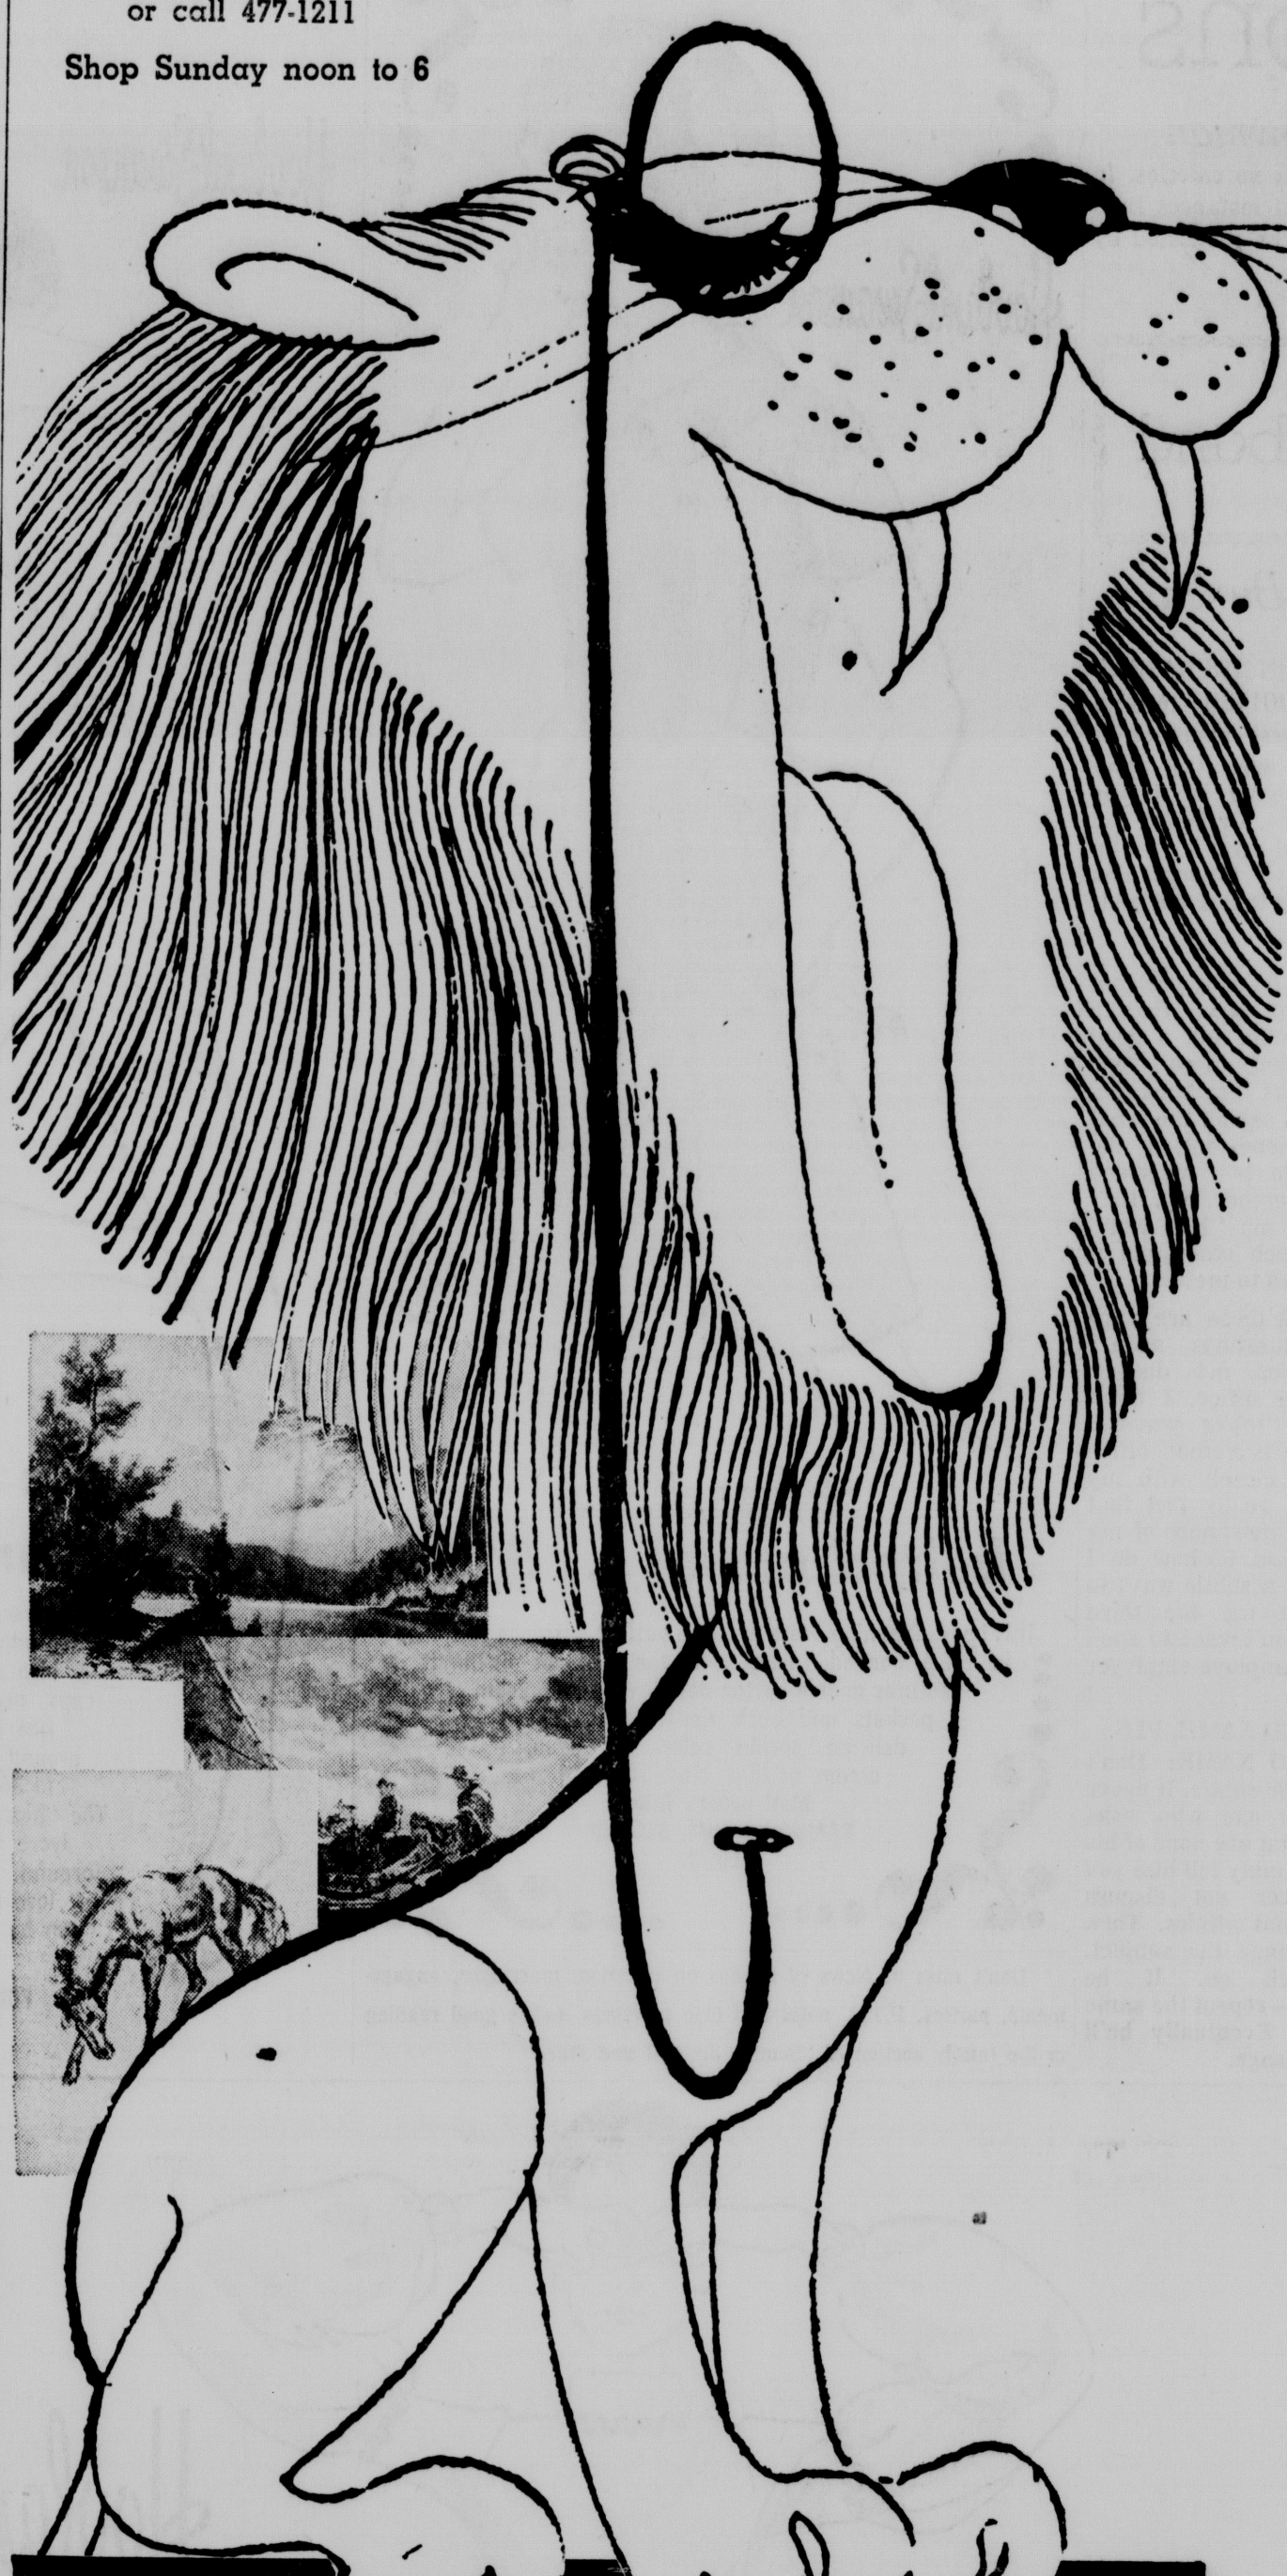

I said — no I cannot say what I said. How did we get out? Well, a highway patrolman rolled up — an angel in the night. He radioed for gasoline.

"You see," she said brightly. "Everything always works out."

Gal Jockey Long Ago

Much ado is being made these days over women jockeys getting mounts at such places as Tropical Park and Santa Anita.

But old-time followers of the Sport of Kings in Nebraska will recall that two gals rode at the Lincoln track more than 25 years ago.

The most recent was Wantha Davis, who was getting mounts at the Lincoln oval in 1942. A few years before her, there was a gal named Lillian Jenkinson doing the same thing.

Dressing Only Problem

Ralph Boomer, secretary of the Nebraska State Racing Commission, recalls that there were no problems with jockeys boycotting races or with Wantha being licensed.

"About the only problem we had was in dressing quarters," he recalls. "We put up a tent in the center of the field for her to change clothes in."

"And the only problem came in supervising her quarters. Of course, jockeys' quarters weren't as closely supervised in those days as they are now."

Wantha came from a small town in Kansas and was a veteran of the quarter-horse circuit.

"She was what we call a bush rider," Boomer points out, "because she had come off the small quarter-horse and county fair tracks."

"There are a number of gals through the years, who have ridden in quarter-horse races."

Could Be Problems

While Wantha caused no trouble in 1942, Boomer and other leading racing officials see a very big problem with women jockeys — their ability and strength or lack of it to handle a horse under the crowded conditions of a race.

"Many people don't realize it, but jockeys are very strong little men," Boomer points out, "particularly in the arms and shoulders."

"And even as strong as they are, they sometimes have difficulty in controlling a horse that tends to lug in or lug out. Most girls of a jockey's weight certainly don't have the strength to handle a half ton of animal in a crowd."

One veteran of Nebraska racing, who was active during Lillian's riding days, recalls that a jockey riding in a race with her was killed in a spill along the rail.

"At the time there were some who alleged she had run the jockey into the rail purposely because of hard feelings between the two of them," he remembers.

"That was never proven, but she never rode in the state again and whether she did it on purpose or by accident, it illustrates one of two things — either that she wasn't capable of handling the horse or it's like the old saying, 'Hell hath no fury like a woman's scorn.'"

Because of federal anti-discrimination laws, stewards and racing commissions cannot keep gals from being jockeys.

But male jockeys can prevent it by doing what they did at Churchill Downs — refusing to saddle up if a girl is given a mount in that race.

Discrimination laws or not, there are some places where women have no business and one of those places is atop a half ton of charging animal driving down the backstretch.

Wesleyan Tops Dana In Finale

... PLAINSMEN WIN, 81-76

Blair — Nebraska Wesleyan's basketball team enjoyed its best rebounding edge of the season and got a 28-point effort from John Brown Thursday night to edge Dana College, 81-76, in the final game of the season for both clubs.

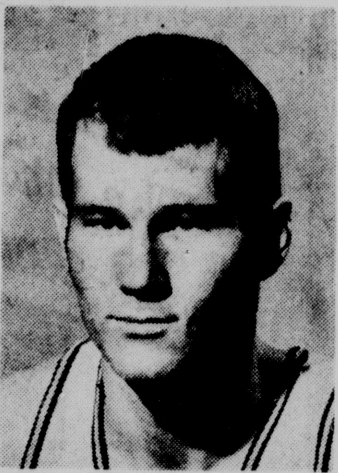

Brown also was one of the big men under the boards for the Plainsmen, tying with Ernie Strasil at 18 rebounds each as the Lincoln eagles picked off 70 caroms to 47 for the losers.

Brown and Strasil helped Wesleyan break open a see-saw battle which saw the Plainsmen fall behind, 47-40 and 51-44, before fighting back to take the lead. The Vikings held a 35-33 halftime lead when Dana's Brent Peterson dumped in a fielder just before the half to snap a 33 all deadlock.

But after the half, Brown popped in 18 points, all on field goals, and Strasil canned 11 of his 15 points to push the Plainsmen to their 26th victory against only two losses in the series.

Wesleyan's super guard, Ken Ahl, had one of his worst scoring nights of his career, picking up only nine points in his finale for the Plainsmen. He closes out his career as Wesleyan's all-time leading scorer at 1636 points.

Ahl, 5-9 senior from Louisville, broke the record of

AP ALL-AMERICANS NAMED

...Alcindor, Maravich Top Choices; White On 2nd Team

New York (AP) — Towering Lew Alcindor of UCLA, Pete Maravich of Louisiana State, Spencer Haywood of Detroit, Rick Mount of Purdue and Calvin Murphy of Niagara were named Thursday as the 1969 college basketball All-American team by The Associated Press.

These five completely dominated the voting by 339 sports writers and broadcasters throughout the country.

Charlie Scott of North Carolina headed a junior-dominated second team. Jo-Jo White of Kansas, the only senior, Mike Maloy of Davidson, Bob Lanier of St. Bonaventure and Dan Issel of Kentucky rounded out the second five.

Neal Walk of Florida, Bobby Smith of Tulsa, Howard Porter of Villanova, Dave Scholz of Illinois and Dave Sorenson of Ohio State were chosen as a third team.

Rudy Tomjanovich of Michigan, Butch Beard of Louisville, Jim McMillan of Columbia, Bud Ogden of Santa Clara, Bill Justus of Tennessee, John Roche of South Carolina and Bob Arzen of Notre Dame were among the honorable mentions.

In making the All-American team for the third straight year, Alcindor, the 7-foot-1½ senior star of the country's No. 1 college team, missed by only 19 points of achieving a perfect score of 1,695.

Big Lew collected 334 firsts and three seconds in the voting. He was omitted on just two ballots. On the basis of five points for a first and three for a second, his total was 1,676.

Jack Vermeire of the Stillwater, Okla. News-Press and Robert E. Johnson of the Iola, Kan. Register were the two who skipped Alcindor. Vermeire commented, "Alcindor was not named because of snubbing the Olympics. A no-no for a player of his stature."

Maravich, a 6-foot-5 junior famed as Pistol Pete for his shooting that made him the nation's top scorer, was another repeater from the 1967 All-American team. He garnered 303 firsts and 22 seconds for a 1,559 points.

Haywood, a 6-8½ sophomore who led the United States team to a gold medal in the Mexico City Olympics last October, was third highest in the voting with 1,288. He had 222 firsts and 89 seconds.

Mount, a 6-4 junior, beat out Murphy, a 5-10 junior, by one point in the voting. Mount had 1,132 points on 182 firsts and 111 seconds. Murphy had 1,131 on 159 firsts and 168 seconds.

Scott a 6-5 junior who starred with Haywood on the U.S. Olympic team, topped the second team with 913 points on 151 firsts and 79 seconds. White, whose eligibility ended on Feb. 1, was the only other player to tally more than 500 points. He had 64 firsts and 91 seconds for 502.

Maloy polled a total of 368 points, including 48 firsts. Lanier had 340 points, including 30 firsts, and Issel 337, including 43 firsts. Walk headed the third team with 259 points, including 21 firsts.

Thereafter the voting fell off sharply. Smith had a total of 123 points, Porter 117, Scholz 109 and Sorenson 108.

Newcomers Key In Big 8 Meet

... KANSAS FAVORED

Newcomers will play a key role for all contenders as a double crop of first-year performers comes of age in the Big Eight indoor track championships in Kansas City Friday and Saturday.

The normal sophomore rookie crop has been supplemented by an exceptional cast of freshmen, eligible for the first time in championship events.

What to expect from the new talent is always a question which concerns coaches.

Now there's a double dose of question marks surrounding the rookies.

One fellow who isn't worrying a lot is Kansas coach Bob Timmons, who has back athletes who accounted for 50½ of the Jayhawks' winning 69-point total last year.

Most of the point punch comes from double winners Jim Ryun and George Byers, who personally accounted for 24 of those points a year ago.

On paper, the Jayhawks, who have as talented a rookie contingent as any contender, look like runaway victors again.

Just as evident in the pre-meet forecast is a projected scramble among Nebraska, Kansas State, Oklahoma, and Missouri for the rest of the first division spots.

Nobody is relying more on new talent than Nebraska coach Frank Sevine. Fourteen of his 22 entries are making their first trip onto the Municipal Auditorium boards.

Leadership for the young contingent will come from three middle distance runners who made sparkling debuts in their first trips to the indoor championship.

Celtic Record

The Boston Celtics have won 10 of the last 12 National Basketball Association championships.

Captain Clifton Forbes, defending champion in the 440, was runnerup in the 440 and fourth in the 60 as a sophomore.

Junior half-milers Dan Morran and Mike Randall went 1-2 in the 880 as sophomores.

The principal newcomers in the NU lineup are milers Greg Carlberg and Pete Brang, 600 standouts. Garth Case and long jumper N. S. Hurd.

Carlberg, a sophomore, carries a 4:08.8 clocking into the meet. Only Ryun has run faster. Brang, a junior who transferred from junior college, is right behind at 4:09.5.

Case is the top Cornhusker freshman candidate. The Jamaica youngster is unbeaten in dual meet competition and figures as a strong contender although his best time ranks only fifth among conference runners.

Hurd, another junior college transfer, ranks fifth in the long jump. He's one of five conference jumpers who have career marks better than the meet record of 24-9½.

"It looks like a six-team race to me," Lincoln Southeast swimming coach Don Copas says of this weekend's state meet. "There's Westside, Creighton Prep and Burke from Omaha, plus the three Lincoln schools."

The two-day affair at the Omaha Burke High pool opens with preliminaries today at 1:30 p.m.

"Because of the 12-place scoring system used," Copas explained, "a team with great depth has a better chance than the team with smaller numbers but greater quality. For that reason Prep and Westside gain a slight edge over the rest."

Lincoln High coach Gene Cotter agreed, but added, "Everything depends so much on where the coaches put their best performers." While pointing out that each boy is limited to just two events, Cotter said that "they'll all be trying to guess where I'll enter Spencer Luedke, because he can probably win any freestyle event he enters. Then they'd get out of that one and get in somewhere else."

Champ Gets Decision

State Swim Meet Today

... SIX-TEAM BATTLE FOR CROWN PREDICTED

Following this article are the best times in each event recorded during the regular season. Luedke's name heads the 100 and 200-yard list and is second behind Southeast's Kelly Cook at 400 yards, though he beat Cook at that distance when they met in the Trans-Nebraska meet.

"I don't like the 12-place system," Cotter admitted, "because it's a matter of depth instead of a true meeting of champions." The Links' coach pointed out that states like Indiana, "with much more advanced programs than ours," still stick with a six-place state meet.

Though the top 12 Friday qualifiers will make the Saturday finals and earn points, only the top six can win an individual championship.

The best six Friday times will swim in a "championship" heat on Saturday for places 1-6, while the other six qualifiers will swim for the points awarded for places 7-12 in another heat.

Even should the winner of the "slow" heat break a state record on Saturday, he can place no higher than seventh under scoring system used.

The diving competition, which will go on most of the day and evening today to reduce the field to the final 12, was expected to be a battle between Omaha Benson's Steve Robbins and Lincoln Northeast's Darrell Jones, who were third and fourth in last year's finals.

But Jones, who won the Trans-Nebraska and Lincoln City titles this season, has been ruled out with an ear infection.

"He had 306.15 in the city meet and that's the first time in all my years of coaching that I've known a Lincoln diver to score more than 300 points in 10 dives," says Northeast coach Ken Wall.

Mays To Sign; Cards Balk

... GIBSON, BROCK, FLOOD WANT $100,000 CONTRACTS

By Associated Press

Willie Mays led the way as a number of high priced stars signed major league baseball contracts Thursday, but a number of others balked at pacts they felt were not high enough priced.

The world champion Detroit Tigers still are missing Al Kaline, Norm Cash, Willie Horton and Jim Price.

General managers also are having trouble with Maury Wills and Rusty Staub of Montreal; Boog Powell and Tom Phoebus of Baltimore; Claude Osteen of Los Angeles; Joe Torre of Atlanta; Bob Veale of Pittsburgh; Tony Perez, Alex Johnson and Jack Fisher of Cincinnati.

Tommy John, Tom McCraw and Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox and Ray Culp, Jose Santiago, Dick Ellsworth and George Scott of Boston.

Mays, San Francisco's venerable star, became the second player in two days to agree to a $125,000 pact and immediately took his first swings of the spring, rocketing several drives off the outfield fences.

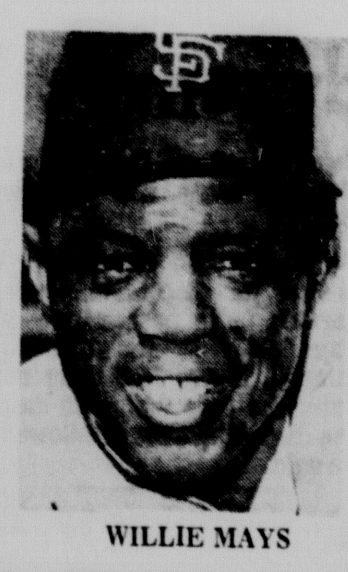

Mays' official signing will be today, the fourth straight year he will earn $125,000.

The Giants also signed catcher Jack Hatt, infielder Jim Davenport, pitcher Ray Sadecki and outfielder Ken Henderson.

Outfielders Richie Allen and Johnny Callison of Philadelphia penned contracts. Allen reportedly getting a slight raise from the $82,500 he received last season and Callison taking a little cut from his reported $40,000. That left the Phillies still without Johnny Briggs, Woody Fryman, Tony Taylor, Rick Wise and Grant Jackson.

Ferguson Jenkins signed for $50,000 with the Chicago Cubs and Harmon Killebrew accepted a $10,000 cut to $70,000 for Minnesota, which has only 22 of 42 players signed.

Baltimore signed All-Star third baseman Brooks Robinson for about $75,000 and 22-game winner Dave McNally for a reported $20,000 raise to $45,000. Boston, which signed Carl Yastrzemski for some $125,000 Wednesday, had another good day by getting comeback Tony Conigliaro, Rico Petrocelli, and Mike Andrews and having Reggie Smith agreeing to sign.

Choice Of Purdue Star Scarcely An Accident

... MOUNT GROOMED AS ALL-AMERICAN

Lafayette, Ind. (AP) — Purdue's Rick Mount didn't become an All-American by accident.

His father had him tossing tennis balls through a peanut can at the age of three in preparation for a basketball career.

But Mount's first reaction Thursday on learning he had been selected a member of The Associated Press All-American team was:

"How about Herm?"

Mount, 6-4 Purdue junior and Big Ten scoring champion, was referring to teammate Herman Gilliam.

"That's great," Rick beamed when informed Gilliam made the AP honorable mention list.

Attaining the highest honor for a college basketball player is not a happenstance with Mount. His father, Pete, was a four-year regular at Lebanon, Ind., High School and led the 1943 team as far as the state prep title game.

Pete knocked the bottom out of a peanut can; attached it to a wall on the back porch and had Rick tossing a tennis ball through it when the youngster was not yet four years old.

Now, during the offseason, Rick shoots at least 200 shots each afternoon, then plays in two or three pickup games each evening. His number of practice shots varies because he refuses to quit until he has hit 10 straight from various spots.

If Rick hits nine, then misses, he starts over again.

A physical education major; he hopes to play professional basketball for some years after he obtains his degree in June 1970. However, looking further into the future, he hopes to make a place for himself in the business world after he retires from basketball.

Mount does virtually everything left-handed except shoot, kick, throw and swing a golf club. On the basketball floor, he is ambidextrous. But his deadly jump shots from a range up to 40 feet are propelled from his right wrist.

"I guess I'm just kind of mixed up," Mount shrugged.

"But I think it has helped me a lot. I can dribble as well left-handed as right, and pass and shoot just about as well."

What about his scoring, which now hovers around the 33-point-a-game mark?

"Oh, if I shot 30 or 40 times a game," Mount said, "I'm sure I'd score 40 or even 50 points a game."

"I'm satisfied to shoot 20 to 25 times and do other things, too," he said. "We have good balance and there isn't any reason for me to shoot any more than I do."

"If I did shoot more, maybe we'd be losing instead of leading the Big Ten."

Sikes, Shaw Share Lead

... FIRST-ROUND 65'S EQUAL DORAL RECORD

Miami (AP) — Veteran Dan Sikes and youngster Tom Shaw equaled the tournament record with seven-under-par 65's Thursday to share the first-round lead of the $150,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament.

Sikes, 38, and Shaw, 26, fashioned nines of 31 and 34 to tie the record first set by two-time Doral winner Doug Sanders in 1965 and tied by defending champion Gardner Dickinson last year.

Dickinson was bunched after the first round with a large group at 71 and Jack Nicklaus with a larger group at even par 72 on this first stop of golf's rich Florida circuit.

Both Sikes and Shaw had five-under-par 31s on the front nine of the 7,008-yard Doral Country Club course. Sikes birdied two holes on the back nine and Shaw, who says he has fun on the golf course, birdied four but bogeyed two others.

The pair eclipsed the early first-round leader, Australian Bruce Devlin, a former plumber, who turned the front nine in 30 but slipped to even par 36 on the backside of the heavily-trapped Doral layout.

Sikes, a former University of Florida golf star, who favors Florida courses, missed an eagle 3 on the 553-yard par 5 first hole when a 12-foot putt lipped the cup. His longest putt of the day was a 20-footer for a birdie at No. 16.

Tied at 67 were South Africa's Harold Henning and veteran Tommy Aaron.

winless so far on the tour but always a contender.

In at 68 were Arnold Palmer, who has never won at Doral, and another South African, 20-year-old Bobby Cole, the youngest player on the tour.

Gal Jockey Finishes Last At Santa Anita

Arcadia, Calif. (AP) — Staid old Santa Anita saw its first woman jockey in formal silks perform Thursday, but it was not an afternoon of the unbelievable for Tuesday Testa.

The 25-year-old, dark-haired exercise rider finished dead last in a field of nine, 11 lengths behind the winner and favorite Indian Love Call in the United Crusade Purse.

A crowd estimated at 21,400 — a normal turnout for a pleasant weekday afternoon — welcomed Mrs. Testa with mixed reaction.

There was a ripple of applause when she first appeared in the saddling paddock with the mare Gallarush. The applause, mixed with a few boos, came as she appeared in the walking ring.

But there was a burst of boos when she came on the track, obviously tense and nervous. But a warmer mood developed in the parade to the post.

The male jockeys, for the most part, seemed amused at all the commotion before the race.

Gallarush had the No. 1 post position, and Tuesday broke the mare alertly. But in the run down the back stretch, her 7-year-old mount, who had not won in four starts this meeting and at 23-1 was second longest shot on the board, soon was trailing the field.

She was never a threat.

Omaha-Billings Rail Case Under Advisement

Cheyenne, Wyo. (UPI) — A three judge federal court panel took under advisement Thursday a motion to bar the Burlington Railroad from discontinuing two trains between Omaha and Billings, Mont.

The action came after arguments were presented by both sides in the case.

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad wants to discontinue its trains 41 and 42 which run between Billings and Omaha. The move was approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission last Jan. 13.

A suit was then filed in Federal Court and a temporary restraining order was issued against the railroad barring it from discontinuing the run. The suit was filed by the Alliance, Neb. Citizens

Voting League for retention of passenger train service in Alliance, the city of Sheridan, Wyo., the United Transportation Union and the Railway Labor Executives Association.

The three judges hearing the case are Ewing T. Kerr and J. J. Hickey of Cheyenne and Olen Chilson of Denver.

An attorney for the railroad told the court Thursday it had no jurisdiction in the case.

Judge Continues Biggins Trial

Rushville, Mo. — The trial of Francis E. Biggins, 52, of McCook, on charges of motor vehicle homicide was continued here Thursday by Sheridan County District Judge Robert Moran.

Moran granted the continuance after affidavits were presented by two physicians saying Biggins was ill.

Biggins is charged in connection with the Jan. 1 death of Terris Jay Fastenau of Hay Springs. The State Patrol said the car driven by Biggins and one driven by Fastenau were involved in a near head-on collision about 8½ miles south of Hay Springs.

Biggins' $500 bond was also continued.

Man, 20, Charged; NU Plant Damaged

Clifford James Bill, 20, of Lincoln, was arraigned in Lancaster County Court Thursday on a charge of malicious destruction of property in connection with damage amounting to about $20,000 to equipment at a University of Nebraska power plant.

Bill of 1101 No. 55th was arrested early Thursday morning by campus police after he allegedly smashed about 70 steam and electrical meters, an equal number of circuit relays and considerable other electronic equipment in a plant at NU's East Lincoln Campus, police officials said.

Verne Traudt, manager of utilities, said a young man entered the plant shortly after 2 a.m., asked an attendant if he was in charge and then proceeded to smash the equipment.

Traudt said the attendant, Harry Turkis, reported that an iron pipe was used to damage the equipment and that several windows and overhead lights were also broken when the pipe was repeatedly thrown up at them.

NU Campus Police Captain Gene Masters said the man was lying on the floor when officers arrived about 10 minutes after Turkis phoned police.

Traudt said that it was reported to him that the man was attempting to fit together broken pieces of equipment before he was taken into custody.

The young man told officers he didn't remember doing the damage, had never worked at the plant, and was not a former university student, Capt. Masters said.

An Army sergeant, Bill is home on 30 days leave from Vietnam to attend his father's funeral.

Bill requested a preliminary hearing, which was set for 3 p.m. Friday. He was released on $2,000 bond.

MRS. ELINOR BROWN

Elinor Brown Third To File For Council

The number of candidates for Lincoln City Council grew to three with the filing Thursday by Mrs. Elinor Brown, a vocal opponent of urban renewal.

Mrs. Brown of 625 So. 56th St. said she decided to make her first bid for public office this year because of her interest in civic affairs.

"I have had an inkling to run during the last several elections but decided this year to file for office," she said.

Mrs. Brown, a former rural schoolteacher who has authored elementary education materials, has been a critic of urban renewal minimum housing codes.

"I spearheaded the drive to defeat urban renewal during the 1962 election," she said.

Mrs. Brown said she believes houses can be livable without enforcement of minimum housing codes.

Presently the president and manager of Midwest Publishing Co. in Ceresco, she said she would have the necessary time to devote to council activity.

Mrs. Brown indicated that present policies on zoning for business concerns have been too restrictive.

"Zoning should be opened up to business investors who want to locate in areas which would best serve their interests," she said.

She added, though, that each application should be judged on its own merits.

Assessment Protests Overruled By Board

Objections by the Burlington Railroad to its water and paving district assessments were overruled Thursday by the City Council, sitting as the Board of Equalization.

Mrs. Helen Boosalis said in voting to overrule the protests that the railroad is no different than anyone else in that it is a landowner paying for the potential benefit of special assessment district improvements.

The board finished hearing testimony on the water assessment and also heard the paving district assessment objection before it ruled on all protests brought before the board at earlier meetings.

Railroad officials had testified the firm was not being benefited by the improvements. They asserted that the railroad did not need such paving and water mains installed in the area.

Board members said at an earlier hearing that there is a benefit to the eight acres now undeveloped since the land could be developed or sold later, with the present improvement upgrading the property values.

John Strobel, a railroad official, said Thursday that the paving of Burlington St. from 69th to 70th Sts. did not benefit the company since there is no access to the plant from the street.

During the Feb. 17 hearing on the water district, Richard Knutson, an attorney for the railroad, said the firm did not need the water main since it has its own water for fire protection.

Railroad officials also claimed that the company has

PBK To Hear Geske

Members of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary, will hold a dinner meeting at 6:15 p.m. Wednesday in the University of Nebraska Union. Guest speaker will be Norman Geske, director of the Sheldon Gallery at the University.

Sales Record Told By Union Insurance Co.

Despite a 70% increase in total loss payments during 1968, policyholders' surplus increased $311,000 during the year and total sales volume at Union Insurance Co. reached a new high of $6,777,000, reported D. H. Pettett, president.

Union Insurance paid claims totaling $2,010,000 to policyholders in Charles City and Oelwein, Iowa, after a severe tornado in May, 1968, according to T. J. Farrell, board chairman.

This together with wind and hail storms in Omaha in August, brought total loss payments in 1968 to $5 million, a 70% increase over 1967, Pettett said.

Policyholders' surplus at the end of the year, however, was $4,742,584, which reflected an increase from the previous year. Total sales volume was nearly $7 million, of which about one-half represented automobile insurance sales, he said.

Farrell and Pettett were re-elected as board chairman and president of the company.

Other officers elected were Maurice R. Gerleman, executive vice president and secretary; John V. Head, senior vice president and general counsel; Robert G. Walters, vice president and agency director; Loren D. Graul, vice president of casualty underwriting; Elton D. Severns, vice president of property underwriting; E. E. Francis, vice president; Robert E. DuPont, vice president of claims; William H. Malone, assistant vice president of claims; C. A. Gerleman, treasurer; Dale E. Graul, assistant treasurer, and L. Dean Fletcher, data processing manager.

Company directors re-elected were Farrell, Pettett, M. R. and C. A. Gerleman, Oliver DeMars, George Kimball, E. E. and E. P. Francis and James H. Ellis.

State Heritage Conference Is Scheduled

About 80 faculty members from 11 Nebraska colleges are expected to attend a "Cultural Heritage of Nebraskans" conference at the Nebraska Center Sunday through Tuesday.

The spring conference, part of the Humanities and Social Sciences Development Program, is sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education.

The meeting topic "will enable faculty members to learn more about Nebraska's cultural heritage and give them an opportunity to discuss ways of improving the teaching curriculum," according to Dr. Benjamin W. McCashland, assistant dean of the University of Nebraska Graduate College and coordinator of the conference.

Highlights of the sessions include talks on: contributions by various ethnic groups in music and the arts, two Nebraska playwrights, Germans in Nebraska politics, architectural heritage and Lincoln in the 1890's.

A special Willa Cather concert will be presented at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in NU's Westbrook Music Building.

Participating colleges are the four State Teachers Colleges at Chadron, Kearney, Wayne and Peru; NU, Nebraska Wesleyan, Union College, Creighton University, College of St. Mary's, Dana College and Midland College.

Tiemann Sure Legislators Will Check Vehicle Inspections

Washington (P) — Nebraska undoubtedly will reinstate some form of motor vehicle inspection system rather than lose federal funds, Gov. Norbert Tiemann of Nebraska said Thursday.

Tiemann said a delegation from the state's unicameral legislature has been warned that it will lose substantial federal funds if some form of motor vehicle inspection program is not reinstated.

Tiemann, attending the National Governors' Conference, said some key state legislators had assumed that the Department of Transportation would not rigidly enforce the penalty provisions of the Transportation Safety Act of 1966.

"They were wrong," he said. "The state has been told it could lose millions in federal funds if it does not reinstate an inspection law."

The legislature recently suspended the state's motor vehicle inspection law.

"I think the trouble was that some drivers with old pickup trucks in rural areas had complained that it just wasn't worth it to fix up these vehicles for inspection," Tiemann said. "But the danger is that a lot of these old beat-up trucks end up going down the expressways and super highways," he said.

"Nebraska had 481 highway deaths last year for a new high and as governor I want to make sure we do something to alleviate this problem," he said.

Tiemann, like many other governors, said he is taking advantage of his Washington trip to talk with federal officials and cabinet members about other Nebraska problems.

"I am discussing several areas of concern to Nebraskans," he said, "but the only one I can mention now is industrial development of rural areas."

Tiemann, who said he is a member of a committee at the governor's conference specializing in that subject, said he has talked to key government officials about programs that Nebraska and other predominantly rural states can utilize.

John D. Rockefeller Pays No Income Taxes

Washington (UPI) — Philanthropist John D. Rockefeller III said Thursday he does not have to pay income taxes because of his large charitable donations, but he voluntarily gives the government money anyway.

The millionaire brother of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller asked the House Ways and Means Committee to write legislation requiring everyone to pay "some reasonable tax."

Rockefeller defended his philanthropy's role in society before the tax-writing committee, which is investigating abuses in the tax laws. He said he has "deliberately paid" a federal tax of between 5 and 10 percent of his adjusted gross income since 1961.

"I believe that all individuals who are able should pay some reasonable tax, including those who have become entitled to the unlimited deduction privilege," Rockefeller said.

He did not reveal any figures on his income, assets or the amount of tax he paid.

The Treasury reported that in 1968, 155 persons earning over $200,000 — including 21 who earned at least $1 million — paid no income taxes.

The committee is looking into possible changes regarding deductible charitable contributions, including a 1968 Treasury recommendation to end the unlimited deduction after a 10-year period.

Small Category
Rockefeller falls into a small category of Americans who do not have to pay income taxes, or whose tax bill is very small, since their charitable deductions are at least 90 percent of their income.

The philanthropist told the committee he "is rightfully concerned about misconduct," but urged the panel not to write new tax laws that would "seriously inhibit" charitable giving.

"Misconduct can be stopped," Rockefeller said, "but we must not, as the saying goes, throw the baby out with the bath."

Change 'Vital'
Former assistant Treasury secretary Stanley S. Surrey said it was "vital" that the tax laws be changed for "increased fairness and simplicity."

He echoed a warning by former Treasury secretary Joseph Barr that otherwise the nation might face a "taxpayer revolt by loss of confidence in the fairness of the income tax."

Richard H. Wangerin, president of the American Symphony Orchestra League, testified that the 88 major city orchestras would have to seek government subsidies if restrictions are put on charitable tax deductions. The orchestras received $12 million in private funds last year, he said.
